Pastor's Corner

Rev. Thomas Purayidathil, Ph.D.

Happy 1st. anniversary of our bulletin!

My dear Parishioners of St. Joseph and Malia Puka O Kalani:

I took over as Administrator/Pastor of St. Joseph and Malia parishes on July 1, 2007. If you remember, the first communication to you as pastor was "the parish bulletin is the face of the parish and we deserve a better face than what we have." I went to work on it and contacted people who generously volunteered to share their time and talent. As a result we were able to come up with the new bulletin on August 5, 2007. One full year has passed and in all modesty, our bulletin is deemed one of the best (if not the best) in the country. The purpose of a parish bulletin is to provide you with more information about what is happening in our parishes so we can all feel more connected, learn more about our faith, and find more and better ways to serve our parishes.

The bulletin gets created each week with the help of the Hilo Roman Catholic Community Editorial Committee. Their job is to go over the content and make plans for future issues. In addition research is done, articles are written, photos are taken, and material edited and formatted. Committee members are Fr. Thomas Purayidathil, Fr. John Mbinda, David Watson, Joyce Saenz, Chrislyn Villena, Anna Texiera, Natalie McKeen and Karen Hotniansky.

I wish to thank all the committee members for the work they put into it. Karen Hotniansky as the coordinator does a marvelous job laying out the whole bulletin. Without her talent and time we would be lost. My heartfelt thanks go to George Hotniansky for his help with proof reading, armed with his trusty Gregg Reference Manual in hand he valiantly tries to catch all those pesky errors that try to sneak into the bulletin.

Also I am grateful to all who have contributed articles, and photos for consideration. Special thanks to the parish secretary, Robyn Whittington for typing out the articles and keeping a track of the schedules and the like. We remember with gratitude Mike Tulang and Michele Lindsey who were members of the editorial board in the beginning. Thanks to all the department heads for updating and letting us know what is currently happening with their ministries.

A good bulletin comes at a cost and so we would like to extend our special thanks for the monetary help we receive from our advertisers and sponsors.

And last but not least we wish to thank the extraordinary bulletin folding team who show up each and every Friday to fold those bulletins!

Once again thank you all for the job you do!

For this issue we thought it might be nice to look back at some highlights from the past year since we printed our first issue on August 5, 2007. ENJOY!

Wishing you all God's blessings,

Rev. Thomas Purayidathil Ph.D.

August 3, 2008: Eighteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year A
Readings: Isaiah 55:1-3; Romans 8:35,37-39; Matthew 14:13-21

First Reading: Isaiah 55:1-3

In this first reading from the prophet Isaiah, the Lord invites all to his heavenly banquet to eat and drink without paying for it. The invitation includes a caution against spending money on what is merely mundane; on things that do not satisfy. That banquet is free for all, but Isaiah is actually pointing to what people deep down hunger and thirst for, namely God. Instead of just receiving food and drink, God promises salvation, peace, freedom from sin, and life everlasting. In this context, God promises to renew his everlasting covenant with his people.

Responsorial Psalm: Psalm 145:8-9, 15-16, 17-18

Psalm 145 is a beautiful prayer of someone who totally depends on God. Because God is full of compassion and good to all who call upon him, the psalmist deeply trusts in God who has a personal care for his people. Response: "The hand of the Lord feeds us; he answers all our needs."

Second Reading: Romans 8:35, 37-39

In this passage, Paul is convinced that nothing will separate us from God's love expressed in Christ Jesus. His faith therefore goes beyond merely putting up with present misfortunes in hopes of getting something better later. He invites every Christian to share with him a vision that God is actively at work within the contradictions and evils of this world, not to remove them but to restore order and healing in and through them.

Gospel: Matthew 14:13-21

This passage begins with reference to the death of John the Baptist. In so doing, Matthew introduces a lengthy section in chapters 14-18 in which Jesus reveals that the fullness of his role as Messiah is to be rejected and suffer death on the cross. Along with the revelation throughout this section of Jesus as crucified savior comes a reminder that his disciples too must share in his cross. The multiplication of loaves serves to present Jesus as the Messiah. He is the successor of Moses, and so he continues to nourish his people and lead them through the desert to the banquet promised by Isaiah in the first reading, now fulfilled in Jesus. The superabundance of the feeding of the crowds by Jesus foreshadows the eternal banquet.

Town Hall Meeting

The Very Rev. Marc Alexander, V.G., Bill Burton, and Carmen Himenes joined our pastor to facilitate a Town Hall meeting with a question and answer session for parishioners. Issues discussed at the well attended meeting included parish hall options, SJ School support and improvements, church land use policies and access to workshops and presenters for our community.

Carol Denis leads a RCIA class.

Seek The Living God

Insert 2—The Ministries of Adult Initiation

Bill's wife Janet had been raised as a Baptist, but after their marriage Janet began to attend Sunday Mass with Bill. Five years and two children later, Janet decided to enter the Catholic Church. During the year she spent in formation, Bill participated in almost every aspect of the initiation process. His own faith, already very strong, became even more important to him.

At times Bill even feared that he might be deriving more benefit from the formation process than Janet or her sponsor. The following year, when he was asked to become a catechist for adult catechumens and candidates, he wondered if he had the ability to guide others in deepening their faith, but accepted the invitation in spite of his doubts.

Roberta entered the catechumenate with very little religious background, since her own family was rather hostile toward religion. Through the support of her husband and her own longing for God, however, she grew in her ability to articulate a deep personal faith in God, and became increasingly involved in the community's outreach to the poor. Throughout the period of the catechumenate, and during her first year as a fully initiated member of the Church, she was tireless in her work for the homeless in the city where she lived. She expressed to the catechumenate director in her parish a desire to share the faith she valued so much. Roberta was delighted to receive an invitation to serve on the precatechumenate team, where she could be of service to inquirers.

The Ministry of the Christian Assembly

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) provides liturgical rites and a process of formation in the Christian life by which unbaptized adults are joined to Christ and to the Church. The RCIA also contains adapted rites and guidelines for the formation of baptized Catholics who have never been catechized or received any of the other sacraments, and also for those who were baptized in other Christian churches and desire to be received into full communion with the Catholic Church.

Because "the initiation of catechumens is a gradual process that takes place within the community of the faithful" (RCIA 4), the primary minister of the initiation rite is the community itself.

All the people of God have been entrusted with the mission of proclaiming the good news of Christ. All share in the responsibility for inviting others to become disciples and to be immersed in the life-giving waters of baptism. Because the initiation of new members is a ministry of the whole community, the RCIA directs that "the people of God, as represented by the local Church, should understand and show by their concern that the initiation of adults is the responsibility of all the baptized" (RCIA 9). There are a number of ways that the whole community exercises its ministry for catechumens and candidates.

Hospitality

Especially during the period of evangelization and precatechumenate, the whole community is invited to welcome newcomers into its midst. The RCIA suggests that the faithful should "show themselves ready to give the candidates evidence of the spirit of the Christian community and to welcome them into their homes, into personal conversation, and into community gatherings" (RCIA 9).

Witness

The goal of adult initiation is conversion to Christ and a life of discipleship in the Christian community. As companions for one another on the journey of faith, we welcome catechumens and candidates to walk the way of Christ with us. We offer them the example of our own Christian life of word, worship, community and service. Our witness is also important for attracting newcomers to join us. By the example of our lives we are evangelizers, bringing to others the good news of Jesus Christ.

Liturgy

By their full, conscious and active participation in the liturgy, the Christian assembly ministers to the catechumens and candidates. The worshiping community expresses its faith in word and in action: by its enthusiastic song, its earnest prayer, its attentive hearing of God's word. During the catechumenate, which is a substantial period of formation in the Christian life, the catechumens join us every Sunday for the liturgy of the Word, and after the homily they are dismissed to continue their reflection on the word of God. The enthusiastic participation of the faithful in the liturgy each Sunday can help to strengthen catechumens as they seek to deepen their faith.

In addition to the Sunday liturgy of the word, the entire initiation process is marked by liturgical rites which correspond to the catechumens' growth in faith and their gradual incorporation into the Christian community. The active participation of the faithful is presumed in all of these celebrations, which take place "within the community of the faithful" (RCIA 4).
