29th Sunday in Ordinary Time,

Dear brothers and sisters,
We celebrate World Mission Sunday. This is a reminder that the Good News of Jesus Christ is to be shared by all baptized Christians. It is in his name that God grants salvation to all. Today we realize that many people have yet to know him and his message. There is no better way to appreciate the gift of our Christian faith than to make the Good News known to every person in the world. We can do this by our living witness of Christian values.

On this World Mission Sunday we also recall Fr. Damien who, a Belgian by birth gave his life in these islands as a Sacred Hearts Missionary. Let us pray for all missionaries and support the missionary work of the Church for all peoples.

God bless you all.

In Jesus, our Bread of Life,
Fr. Samuel E. Loterte, SSS

*"The call to defend the poor and the helpless
is the most basic duty
of Christians. If the life of a child in his mother's womb is threatened, no one is safe. Our faith calls us to witness this truth by our action - All human life is sacred!"*

-Most Rev. John C.
Reiss, DD, JCD

Prayer for the Week

God, Father of all,
You taught the disciples
of your Son
That he must drink the
cup that you gave to him
And that they must drink
the same cup.

In your kingdom,
Real power is powerlessness;
The great are servants,
And the first are slaves of all.

We have been baptized with the baptism of Jesus;
Make us faithful disciples.
Bring us to the fullness of the kingdom.
Amen.

Sunday Reflection:

by Father Greg Friedman, O.F.M

29th Sunday in Ordinary Time (B)

October 18, 2009

Is 53:10-11; Ps 33:4-5, 18-19, 20, 22 ; Heb 4:14-16 ; Mk 10:35-45 or 10:42-45

I've worked in Church communications for many years. Over that time I've met many public relations professionals—talented people who work hard to put out the positive stories about their companies or organizations. Most are devoted to the truth, and deal with negative news honestly and directly. But I suspect some of them might have urged Mark, the author of today's Gospel, to re-consider his portrayal of the disciples!

Mark doesn't paint a very positive portrait. Throughout his Gospel, the disciples just don't get it! They misunderstand Jesus' message, engage in behavior contrary to his proclamation of the Kingdom, and abandon him at the end.

Today's passage is a good example, as James and John vie for the top jobs in the hierarchy—right next to the Lord himself. Once more, Jesus must make an example of such behavior, promising that these enterprising brothers will indeed share his lot. But through sharing the cup of suffering. His only wish is that they would choose that outcome through self-giving service.

In a way, I'm glad no one "cleaned up" Mark's portrait of the disciples. It gives me some comfort to hear how they stumbled toward the Kingdom, when I consider my own failings! Their humanness gives us hope that God will work in our lives and will patiently remind us, as Jesus does today, that true greatness comes through serving others.

I'm Father Greg Friedman with the "Sunday Soundbite" for St. Anthony Messenger Press, on the Web at FranciscanRadio.org.

A warm welcome for Sr. Jane Francis

Sr. Jane Francis! she is here on a canonical visit until October 23, 2009!

Relic Questions

What is a relic?

There are three classes of sacred relics. A first class relic is a part of a body of a saint, a second class relic is clothing or other object used by the saint in life, and a third class relic is an object touched to a first class relic.

What is the purpose of a relic?

A relic is a physical connection to the saint and thus an object of reverence and veneration by the church, a practice that goes back to the earliest centuries of the church. Church law forbids them to be bought or sold.

What is the Saint Damien relic that will be given to Bishop Larry Silva at the canonization?

The relic is a foot bone, thought to be from Damien's heel. Father Damien is entombed in Louvain, Belgium.

What is the final destination for this relic?

Bishop Silva will bring it back to Hawaii, where it will be brought to each of the islands for veneration before it is enshrined in the Cathedral of Our Lady of Peace in Honolulu.

Will the public be able to see or visit the relic?

The relic itself won't be visible, but the reliquary, or case that holds it, will be accessible, on display and able to be touched.

Doesn't Hawaii already have a relic of Damien?

Yes. When Father Damien was beatified in Belgium, in 1995 by Pope John Paul II, the pope gave the Hawaii delegation the bones of Damien's right hand, sealed in a metal box, to be returned to Hawaii

Father of Mercy, In Saint Damien you have given us A shining witness of love for the poorest and the most abandoned. Grant that, by his intercession, As faithful witnesses of the heart of your Son Jesus, We too may be servants of the most needy and rejected. Amen.

Comment: A relic points to something that we cannot see, to that person and the holiness of his or her life.” Quote from Holy Cross Father Peter Rocca, the rector of the Basilica of the Sacred Heart at Notre Dame University, which has hundreds of relics.

Saint Damien de Veuster

1840-1889 The Life of Father Daimien

Joseph De Veuster, the future Father Damien, was born at Tremelo in Belgium, January 3, 1840. When his oldest brother Pamphile entered the Congregation of the Sacred Hearts, his father planned that Joseph would take charge of the family business. Joseph, however, decided to become a religious himself. In 1859 he entered the novitiate in Louvain and took the name of Damien.

In 1863, his brother, who was supposed to leave for the mission in the Hawaiian Islands, became ill. Damien obtained permission from the Superior General to take his place. He arrived in Honolulu on March 19, 1864, and was ordained to the priesthood on May 21, 1864. He was assigned to the island of Hawaii to begin his pastoral ministry.

At that time, the Hawaiian Government decided on a measure at stopping the spread of "leprosy" by deporting those thought to be infected to a peninsula surrounded by the ocean on three sides and by a very high mountain cliff on the other, a place of exile known as Kalaupapa on the island of Molokai. A plea was made by those abandoned for a priest or minister to come to the aid of their spiritual needs. Bishop Louis Maigret, ss.cc., spoke to the priests about the problem.

Several volunteered to go for a few months. Damien was the first to leave on May 10, 1873. At his own request and that of the residents of Kalaupapa who were afflicted with leprosy, he remained definitively on Molokai.

He brought hope to this hell of despair. He became a source of consolation and encouragement for his flock by becoming the doctor of their souls and of their bodies without distinction of race or religion. He gave a voice to the voiceless and built a community where they discovered new reasons for living. That once lawless place had now become a place where the law of love prevailed.

After he himself contracted the disease in 1885, Damien was able to identify completely with them with the words "We, Lepers." Father Damien became a witness of the love of God for His people. His strength came from the Eucharist as he himself wrote: "It is at the foot of the altar that we find the strength we need in our isolation.." It is there that he found for himself and for those he served the support and encouragement, the consolation and the hope that made him "the happiest missionary in the world," a servant of God and a servant of humanity.

Father Damien died on April 15, 1889, having served sixteen years among the patients with leprosy. His mortal remains were transferred to Belgium in 1936, where he was interred in the crypt of the church of the Congregation of the Sacred Hearts at Louvain. His fame spread to the entire world. In 1938 the process for his beatification was introduced at Malines (Belgium). Pope Paul VI signed the Decree on the "heroics of his virtues" on July 7, 1977. In Father Damien, the Church proposes an example to all those who find sense for their life in the Gospel and who wish to bring the Good News to the poor of our time. In 1995, Father Damien was beatified by Pope John Paul II in Brussels. On October 11, 2009, Pope Benedict XVI will raise Father Damien to the rank of "sainthood." Father Damien's Feast Day is May 10.

Damien's Canonization

Frequently Asked Questions

What is canonization? A canonization is the Catholic Church's official declaration that a person is in heaven and is worthy of public veneration and imitation under the title "saint"

What does canonization mean for Damien besides the title "saint"? With canonization, Saint Damien will have his name listed in the church's catalogue of saints, his feast day (May 10) will be included on the church's worldwide liturgical calendar, and churches may now be freely named after him.

Does Hawaii have any other saints? Not at present, though one is in process. Mother Marianne Cope, who followed Damien at Kalaupapa and who died there in 1918, is also a candidate for sainthood. She was beatified in Rome in 2005. Blessed Marianne was a Sister of St. Francis and an American citizen who grew up in upstate New York.

Will the canonization of Blessed Damien be celebrated annually? Damien is already celebrated locally in his feast day, May 10 (the day in 1873 that he set foot on Molokai). That feast will now be celebrated on the church calendar universally.

A Surprising Affirmation

On Christmas Day, 1858, the brothers apprehensively broke the news to their parents. Both were surprised when Frans and Catherine, anticipating the announcement, received it with great joy.

On New Year's day an elated Jef wrote to his parents, "What a joy for me to tell you again today that I love you, and that my heart will never forget your goodness and kindness."

Frans accompanied Jef to Louvain to meet Father Vincke. Again Father held out the possibility that a choir brother, with hard work and determination, could acquire the skills and knowledge to be considered a candidate for the priesthood. With a sense of finality Joseph De Veuster asked to be allowed the name Damien in place of his given one. Father Vincke promptly approved. It was an eager Damien who decided not to go home to bid good-bye to his family and friends but to stay at the House of Formation to be with his new family, the Congregation of the Sacred Hearts. Frans journeyed home alone.

Formation: The Molding of a Candidate

February 2, 1859, was Brother Damien's first day in the House of Formation of the Congregation of the Sacred Hearts. The day started before dawn and was filled with meditation, prayer and liturgy, interspersed with chores such as cleaning and servicing the church and grounds, and learning to care for the elderly and infirm.

Important as these activities were, it was the Perpetual Adoration to the Blessed Sacrament that was the centerpiece of the day. Each member took his half hour before the altar daily and one hour at night weekly. Not surprisingly Brother Damien chose the less popular hours after midnight, a practice he followed years later on Molokai.

The brothers tackled the task of Damien's academic deficiencies with a vengeance. Damien moved into his brother's cramped room to maximize their time together, and long hours were spent on French, Latin, and Greek. To learn one language in a formal classroom is noteworthy, but to take on three tongues simultaneously and to learn them "on the run" is heroic.

True, Damien had been studying French for several months, but it was the French of business, hardly suitable for the subtleties of philosophy and theology. He considered his study of Greek less arduous since all he had to do was to translate the New Testament from Greek into French.

The major stumbling block was Latin, the official tongue of philosophers and theologians and the backbone of the liturgy. Its importance required a different strategy: total immersion. Upon waking they hailed each other in Latin, conversed in Latin and prayed in Latin. Routine day-to-day conversation was conducted in Latin. Extra effort was focused translating from Latin the Roman biographer Cornelius Nepos, the work on which Damien would be tested.

Damien, blessed with a knack for languages, progressed rapidly thanks to hours of study gained at the expense of sleeping less than six hours nightly. The challenge was compounded when Pamphile learned he would be transferred to Paris in just six months. Each moment became precious.

Imagine Pamphile's dismay when he discovered his brother did not consider the intense studying and loss of sleep penance enough.

"I awoke and saw a large bundle beside his bed. I went to see what it was. It was my brother who was sleeping on the floor as the nearest thing, no doubt, to a board like the one he used in Tremeloo."

Yet in the end the hard work paid off handsomely. Less than a year later Damien tested at the level of a fifth-year Latin student, rattling off passages of Cornelius Nepos on sight. He was qualified to start his studies in the minor seminary immediately!

St. John of Capistrano (1386-1456)

Feast day: October 23

It has been said the Christian saints are the world's greatest optimists. Not blind to the existence and consequences of evil, they base their confidence on the power of Christ's redemption. The power of conversion through Christ extends not only to sinful people but also to calamitous events.

Imagine being born in the fourteenth century. One-third of the population and nearly 40 percent of the clergy were wiped out by the bubonic plague. The Western Schism split the Church with two or three claimants to the Holy See at one time. England and France were at war. The city-states of Italy were constantly in conflict. No wonder that gloom dominated the spirit of the culture and the times.

John Capistrano was born in 1386. His education was thorough. His talents and success were great. When he was 26 he was made governor of Perugia. Imprisoned after a battle against the Malatestas, he resolved to change his way of life completely. At the age of 30 he entered the Franciscan novitiate and was ordained a priest four years later.

His preaching attracted great throngs at a time of religious apathy and confusion. He and 12 Franciscan brethren were received in the countries of central Europe as angels of God. They were instrumental in reviving a dying faith and devotion.

The Franciscan Order itself was in turmoil over the interpretation and observance of the Rule of St. Francis. Through John's tireless efforts and his expertise in law, the heretical Fraticelli were suppressed and the "Spirituals" were freed from interference in their stricter observance.

He helped bring about a reunion with the Greek and Armenian Churches, unfortunately only a brief arrangement.

When the Turks captured Constantinople in 1453, he was commissioned to preach a crusade for the defense of Europe. Gaining little response in Bavaria and Austria, he decided to concentrate his efforts in Hungary. He led the army to Belgrade. Under the great General John Junyadi, they gained an overwhelming victory, and the siege of Belgrade was lifted. Worn out by his superhuman efforts, Capistrano was an easy prey to the infection bred by the refuse of battle. He died October 23, 1456.

Comment: John Hofer, a biographer of John Capistrano, recalls a Brussels organization named after the saint. Seeking to solve life problems in a fully Christian spirit, its motto was: "Initiative, Organization, Activity." These three words characterized John's life. He was not one to sit around, ever. His deep Christian optimism drove him to battle problems at all levels with the confidence engendered by a deep faith in Christ.

HRCC Mission Statement

We, the Hilo Roman Catholic Community of St. Joseph and Malia Puka O Kalani, guided by the Holy Spirit, Our Blessed Mother, and Saint Joseph, gather as a family of believers in the celebration of the Eucharist. Blessed with many cultures, talents, and inspired by the Hawaiian tradition of Aloha, we pledge to share our heritage, our gifts, and the principles of our faith, and to commit ourselves to the educational, social, and spiritual needs of all our brothers and sisters.

Christ is counting on you to find out more about Cursillo.
