PRAY FOR US!

And He spoke many things to them in parables, saying, "Behold, the sower went out to sow; and as he sowed, some seeds fell beside the road, and the birds came and ate them up. Others fell on the rocky places, where they did not have much soil; and immediately they sprang up, because they had no depth of soil."

-Matthew 13:3-5

Weekly Reflection:

15th Sunday of Ordinary Time Year A

"A sower went out to sow..."

Today's Gospel of the seed, the sower and the soil is a lesson in hope.

First, it is having hope for the seeds that was being sown, because otherwise what will be the reason to go on sowing. The miracle of life certainly never ceases to amaze us - that a little seed grows into a big tree, and from a small grain comes a harvest of a hundred-fold. It also applies to seeds of goodness, truth and love. Is it not true that many of us have become what we are now because of somebody's wise counsel, act of kindness, and words of encouragement? And so much truer it is for the Word of God. It has the power to transform into a new creature and world into a new creation.

Second it is having hope for the sower, who never grew tired of sowing even it does not yield the harvest it yearns. The sower will not give up for he has faith on the seed and the grounds that will receive it. He even calls on men and women who will sow the good seeds of the kingdom. We can trust that amidst the darkness, somebody will light a candle for us.

And third, it is having hope for the soil, which is our heart and our person. The soil is the receiver of the seed that was sown. It might not be a rich soil now, but with a little cultivation, weeding, and composting it will be ready to receive the seed and yield a harvest of hundred, sixty or thirtyfold.

"Whoever has ears ought to hear." Let us open our eyes and see the signs of life and growth around us. Do not despair. All will be well.

The Young Adults Ministry will be hosting a Prayer-Walk-A-Thon!

The Formation Process of a Priest

"And He went up on the mountain, and called to Him those whom He desired; and they came to Him." (Mk. 3:13)

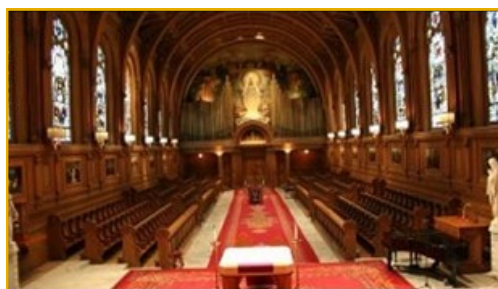

The process for becoming a Catholic priest involves not so much a program in which one is "trained for a job", as it does a renewed relationship of discipleship to the Lord. Becoming a Catholic priest entails a radical change in a man's way of life, through which a priestly identity is formed and revealed. And like any process of growth, the formation of that priestly identity requires a sufficient amount of time. Men who are accepted as potential candidates for the Catholic Priesthood for the Diocese of Honolulu can therefore expect to spend between seven to nine years as seminarians, living and studying at a seminary, prior to beginning their ministry as ordained priests of Jesus Christ.

In its deepest identity, the seminary is called to be, in its own way, a continuation in the Church of the apostolic community gathered about Jesus, listening to his word, proceeding toward the Easter experience, and awaiting the gift of the Spirit for the mission. The seminary is, in itself, an original experience of the Church's life. In it, the bishop is present through the ministry of the rector, and those with whom he shares his responsibility, for the sake of the pastoral and apostolic growth of the students. The various members of the seminary community, gathered by the Spirit into a single brotherhood, cooperate, each according to his own gift, in the growth of all in faith and charity, so that they may suitably prepare for the priesthood; and so prolong in the Church, and in history, the saving presence of Jesus Christ, the Good Shepherd.

Because the Diocese of Honolulu does not operate its own seminary, Honolulu Seminarians are sent to the following places:

College Seminary or Pre-Theology
Our Honolulu seminarians spend their first four years at Mount Angel Seminary in Oregon, majoring in philosophy with courses foundational to their future studies in Sacred Theology. The funding for college education is the responsibility of the college seminarian. At the end of college seminary, a man can expect to receive a Bachelor of Arts degree in Philosophy. In lieu of college seminary, our men who already have a bachelor degree would enter into the seminary program as Pre-Theologians at Saint Patrick Seminary in Menlo Park, California, undergoing an abbreviated two-year philosophy curriculum at cost to the Diocese of Honolulu; again attending courses designed to prepare them for future studies in Sacred Theology.

Sacred Theology

After college seminary or Pre-Theology, our men continue their studies at Saint Patrick Seminary in California, or Sacred Heart Seminary at Hales Corner, Wisconsin. Seminarians receive a Master of Divinity degree after four years of studying Sacred Theology. Ordinarily, after their second year of theology studies, seminarians take what is called a "pastoral year", during which they live and work at one of the sixty-six parishes in the Diocese of Honolulu in order to gain practical experience in parish ministry. Following their pastoral year, seminarians return to the seminary for their final two years of academic study.

The Four Pillars of Priestly Formation:

"I have become all things to all men, that I might by all means, save some". (1 Cor. 9:22b)

The priestly vocation continues to be the call to live the unique and permanent priesthood of Christ. At the same time, the life and ministry of the priest must also adapt to every era and circumstance of life. In order to adequately respond to the deepest spiritual needs of contemporary society, seminarians are called upon to increase in maturity in each of the "Four Pillars of Priestly Formation".

Human Formation: The Basis of All Priestly Formation

Our future priests are mentored in such a way as to cultivate in them these human qualities, not only for the sake of their personal growth and realization of self, but also in view to their future ministry. These qualities are needed for them to be balanced men, strong and free, and capable of bearing the weight of pastoral responsibilities. They also are educated to love the truth; to be loyal; to respect every person; to have a sense of justice; to be true to their word; to be genuinely compassionate; to be men of integrity; and especially, to be balanced in judgment and behavior.

Spiritual Formation: In Communion with God and in Search of Christ

Candidates for the priesthood participate in a comprehensive spiritual formation program, the goal of which is that students may learn to live in intimate and unceasing union with God the Father through his Son Jesus Christ, in the Holy Spirit. Those who are to take on the likeness of Christ the High Priest by sacred ordination, are called upon to form the habit of drawing close to him as friends in every detail of their lives, and to live his paschal mystery in such a way that they will know how to initiate into it the people committed to their charge.

Our seminarians are taught to seek Christ in faithful meditation on the Word of God, and in active participation in the sacred mysteries of the Church, especially in the Eucharist, Reconciliation, and the Divine Office; to seek him in the bishop by whom they are sent, and in the people to whom they are sent, especially the poor, little children, the weak, sinners, and unbelievers. With the confidence of sons, they are taught to love and reverence the most blessed Virgin Mary, who was given as Mother to the beloved disciple by Jesus Christ himself as he was dying on the Cross.

Intellectual Formation: Understanding the Faith

Great care is given to the quality of intellectual formation that our men receive in preparing for priestly ministry, through which they receive a Bachelors of Arts Degree in Philosophy (for those without a bachelors degree) and a Maser of Divinity in Sacred Theology, prior to being ordained a priest of Jesus Christ in the Diocese of Honolulu. The commitment to study, which takes up no small part of the time of our men preparing for the priesthood, is not in fact an external and secondary dimension of their human, Christian, spiritual, and vocational growth. In reality, through study, especially the study of theology, they assent to the Word of God, grow in their spiritual lives, and prepares themselves to fulfill their pastoral ministry.

Pastoral Formation: Communion with the Charity of Jesus Christ the Good Shepherd

All of a seminarian's human, spiritual, and intellectual formation is directed towards this specific pastoral end: that he, in his future ministry as priest, presents Christ to humanity, through the Eucharistic sacrifice and the sacraments; through his ministry of the revealed Word of God, made his own through meditation and prayer, expressed through his speech and way of life; and through his sincere gift of self for the salvation of souls, winning over many by becoming the servant of all (cf. 1 Cor. 9:19), like Christ our Lord, who "did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many" (cf. Mk. 10:45; Jn. 13:12-17).

Bishop Larry Silva, Father Rheo Ofalsa, and Honolulu Seminarians at annual Kalaupapa, Moloka'i trip

Dear friends in Christ,

Peace be with you. When the Son of God entered into his public ministry, he called to himself the Twelve Apostles, upon whom he entrusted his own power and authority to cast out demons, cure diseases, and to preach the kingdom of God and to heal (c.f. Lk. 9:1-2). Yet our Lord and his Apostles were not without support in their ministry. Certain women, some who were acknowledged by name, and many other people who were acknowledged only anonymously, provided for them out of their means (cf. Lk. 8:1-3). To this day, our Lord continues to call certain men to himself for the sake of priestly ministry, and the need for provision crucially remains, especially during the time of a man's formal academic formation within the seminary system.

Not including the overhead and operational expenses typically associated with managing an Office of Vocations, the education costs alone (tuition, room and board) per each seminarian total approximately $320,000 over the course of his four years of undergraduate studies in philosophy, four years of graduate studies in Theology, and one year of pastoral formation within a parish community. Because of these costs, and despite the generosity of so many of the faithful, the Office of Vocations operates, on average, annually at a deficit of over $200,000.

I humbly ask you to please prayerfully consider making a financial donation towards priestly vocations. Your gift would directly contribute to the education of our seminarians and is much needed and greatly appreciated.

Your servant in Christ,

Fr. Rheo Ofalsa, Vocations Director
