18th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME
Looking for Jesus

This week many of us have been glued to the TV to watch the Olympics. Every medal is seen as a sign of triumph for an athlete and his country. And who does not want success in their life?

In the gospel today we hear that after feeding 5000 men, they desired to make Jesus king. For the crowd, it was such a successful feat. But not for Jesus. He was so disheartened that the crowd misunderstood the “sign” of the multiplication of the loaves. They were following Him not to listen to His words but simply to have an easy access to the food Jesus can provide. They missed the greater reality of “the bread that endures for eternal life”, which Jesus is offering to them.

During their flight from Egypt, the chosen people received manna from the Lord to sustain them. In Jesus, God offers his people the Bread of Life through His Word and His Body.

Today we, too, must pause and ask why are we looking for God? Is it only because of a special favor that we are in need of? Do we truly hunger or the Word of God in our lives because they are meant to nourish us to live our life to the fullest? Are we really looking for Jesus or are we just looking for success in life?

Jesus lovingly reminds us: “I am the Bread of Life. No one who comes to me will ever be hungry.”

The Ministry of Sacristan

They are not always very obvious but they are not invisible either. Such is the liturgical role of the Sacristan within a parish.

The *General Instructions of the Roman Missal* describes the Sacristan's role in Chapter III: Duties and Ministries in the Mass, in a single line

105. A liturgical function is also exercised by:

a) The sacristan, who diligently arranges the liturgical books, the vestments, and other things that are necessary for the celebration of Mass.

The holy preparations in which Sacristans are entrusted are the basic framework for the beautiful and sacred objects that are used and carried out before, during, and after the Mass. It's a serious job that one must undertake with care and wisdom.

In the Sacristy

Many of the Sacristan's duties are related to taking care of the Sacristy (hence the name Sacristan) and the sacred items in the Sacristy. This is the secure area of the church which serves as a holding room for the sacred items used in the Holy Mass. It is usually a small room off to the side of the altar. In the sacristy, there is a standing observation of silence.

In this small space, all linens used in the Mass are cleaned according to strict requirements. The altar cloths are first soaked to remove any remnants of The Blessed Sacrament before laundering. This water containing the Holy Body must be poured directly into the sacrarium or onto the ground, no exceptions. The linens are then ironed and replaced.

The Sacristan usually arrives about thirty minutes before Mass begins. He or she makes sure the priest has the required collections for the altar. This includes the chalice, cruets, linens, oils, crosses, candles, and celebration bells. All must be kept in pristine condition. The Sacristan also ensures all lamps and candles have sufficient light to last for the entire Mass. At the priest's discretion, the Sacristan may also be responsible for ensuring that there are sufficient fresh hosts and the proper amount of duly authorized wine for the communion procession. Once Mass has ended, the altar cloths are cleaned, as is the altar itself.

Here at St. Joseph, we are blessed to have several sacristans: Laureen Salboro, Willy Waiiau, Joseph Andrews, Maria Nagai, Stu Tunufai, Lei Shinoda, Leah Ogden and Fern Madronna.

While there is no official training for a becoming a Sacristan, being well read in liturgical books and calendars is a must. He or she must be a regular parishioner approved by the pastor with a joyful willingness to serve. If you are interested in being a Sacristan for our parish, talk to our priest. You may be needed more than you know.
